The gospel for this Sunday describes how a Canaanite woman comes up to Jesus. Her daughter is possessed with a devil, and she implores Jesus and cries out to Him; but Jesus does not answer, and His disciples want Him to tell her to go away. Jesus then says that He has only been sent to the lost sheep in Israel; but still the woman is not discouraged and keeps on insistently. Jesus answers her with apparent hardness: is He to take the bread from the children to cast it to the dogs? Truth, Lord, says the woman humbly, but the dogs themselves eat the crumbs which fall from the table. "Great is thy faith" Jesus says to her: let it be done unto this woman according to her faith. And her daughter is immediately made whole.

This episode shows how the mission of the Messiah, at first destined for the Jews, is graciously extended to the Gentiles. Spiritually, this gospel shows what intense faith, and prayer which is humble and insistent can achieve. Jesus seems to be silent. He seems to say hard things (but, perhaps, when He spoke of the children's bread that is not cast to the dogs, this hardness was tempered by a smile). Our Lord acts in this way when He wants to test the strength of our faith. But He does not refuse His grace to someone who is humble enough to compare themselves to a dog feeding on crumbs fallen from the table. Let us look at the Canaanite woman's reaction when Jesus says that He has only been sent to the lost sheep of Israel: "Then came she and worshipped Him, saying, Lord help me". It is often at the very moment when Jesus seems to put up a decisive refusal that we must redouble our faith, come near to Him, worship Him and beg for His help. The formula 'help me' is always acceptable to the Lord, even if the particular form of help we are seeking is not that which He desires to give us. "Lord, Thou dost say "no: to me. I come to Thee and adore Thee: help me as Thou dost judge it good".
