Thoughts on Rising from the Dead

Our bodies, being nourished by it [the Eucharist], and deposited in the earth, and although suffering decomposition there, will rise at their appointed time. For the Word of God will grant them resurrection to the glory of God, even the Father, who freely gives immortality to this which is mortal.

St. Irenaeus

“Flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God.” This is put forward by all the heretics in support of their folly [i.e., their denial of the resurrection of the body]. They do this to try to annoy us and to point out that the handiwork of God [i.e., the flesh] is not saved... However, by “flesh and blood,” Paul refers to all of those (as many as there are) who do not have that [Spirit] which saves and forms us into life. These are the ones who do not have the Spirit of God in themselves. For That reason, men of this mold are spoken of by the Lord as “dead.” For He says, “Let the dead bury their dead.”

St. Irenaeus

If [the heretics] also admit that there is a resurrection of the dead, let them answer us this: What is it that died? Was it not the body? It is of the body, then, that there will be a resurrection.

Origen

No restoration of marriage is promised in the day of the resurrection. For they will be transformed into the condition and sanctity of angels.

Tertullian
