The Orthodox Rule of Prayer

To dedicate a period of time each day to listening to Jesus, and to prayer, is to choose, as Mary did, "the better part," "the one thing needful." It means that we have realized that meeting God in prayer is the most important thing we can do each day. We read in the Bible that God would speak to Moses "face to face" (Exodus 33:11). What a wonderful thing it is for us, too, to develop this kind of intimacy with God whereby we speak to Him in prayer each day face to face. To remind yourself that it is indeed "face to face," place an icon of Christ before you as you pray.

The people of God whose prayers are recorded in the Bible and in the prayer books of the Church, seldom ever read a book on prayer, seldom ever went to a seminar on prayer, seldom ever heard a sermon on prayer. They just prayed! And the prayers of the Church are so important because the whole theology of what we believe about God is to be found in those prayers (lex credendi, lex orandi). What we believe is what we pray. And what we pray is what we believe. That is why the Church Fathers say that one who truly prays is a theologian. And a true theologian is one who prays.

Satan fears prayer because God hears prayer. Satan will stop at nothing to distract and discourage a person from prayer. If he succeeds at this, he separates us from our greatest source of power. This is why the Church Fathers keep stressing that to pray, a person must struggle to his last breath.
